And want to thank the public for the co-operation they gave us by signing the children's votes. CURB MARKET OPENING DAY

Few Wagons but Many Good Spring Vegetables at Curb Market for Opening Day of the Summer Season. More Later.

With a scant half dozen wagons on hand for the opening, the curb market season of 1913 was ushered in on Centre Square at six o'clock this morning. That the opening day chanced to fall on a holiday is blamed in part for the small attendance while early risers say they saw hucksters violating the ordinance and selling their goods on the streets of town during market hours.

The truck raisers had the best of spring vegetables on hand when Market Master Miller rang his bell for the opening and it did not require long to dispose of desirable goods. Asparagus, usually scarce during the first ten days of the market, was for sale in abundance and of the finest quality, too. Of course onions were much in evidence and there was rhubarb, spinach, fall potatoes, dressed chickens, eggs and other produce. Prices were moderate and the buyers were quick to make their purchases.

The season promises to be a good one at market judging from the number of stalls engaged. Fifteen have bought places for the entire season—more than last year—and a number of others have signified their intention of starting regularly about June first, not having much to sell before that time.

Six o'clock will be the opening hour for the summer months, that time having been chosen after numerous other experiments which did not prove satisfactory.

TO STAY IN YORK

Minnesota's Governor Will Live there While Attending Celebration.

Governor Eberhart, of Minnesota, and his staff, accompanied by their wives, have engaged quarters at the Colonial hotel, York, for the week of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. The party will comprise thirty persons and they expect to visit the battlefield each day of the celebration, returning to York each evening.

This same plan, says the York Gazette, will be followed by thousands of other visitors and the hotels of York are besieged for reservations for that period. The Gazette thinks it altogether probable that the city will be thronged with veterans and other visitors to the great celebration, for it is now believed that "but a fraction of the visitors can secure accommodations in or near Gettysburg." The York Chamber of Commerce is taking a lively interest in the matter of securing accommodations for the strangers and citizens who are willing to give lodgings are asked to let the fact be known to Secretary Eugene F. Weiser, of the Chamber of Commerce. He is receiving many applications for information of this kind.

URGED FOR BISHOP

Chambersburg Pastor To Be Boomed For Bishop.

The delegates from the Pennsylvania Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ to the General Conference in Decatur, Ill., May 8, have unanimously voted to support Rev. Dr. W. H. Washinger, of Chambersburg, for the office of bishop in the church. He is well known here. Dr. Washinger has been for a number of years superintendent of the Pennsylvania Conference and is one of the ablest men of the church. The East has now no representative on the Board of Bishops and it is believed that Dr. Washinger will have the unanimous support of the delegates from the eastern section of the country.

Unable to pay their fines, they were taken to the Chambersburg jail, where they will serve out the fine and costs.

ODD FELLOWS' CONVENTION

Committee Meet and Make Arrangements for Various Sessions and Features. Four Separate Meetings. Expect 1500.

A meeting of the committees from Gettysburg Lodge of Odd Fellows and the local Board of Trade was held on Thursday evening to complete the arrangements for the state convention of Odd Fellows here May 18 to 24.

It was reported that the first large body of delegates to arrive would come from Western Pennsylvania by special train and get here Sunday evening, the 18th. Between 400 and 500 are expected in this party which will be met at the train by the Citizens' Band. The Odd Fellows will have the Hotel Gettysburg as their headquarters and the Eagle Hotel will be headquarters for the Daughters of Rebecca.

The former organization will hold its sessions in the new cyclorama building which is being hurried along rapidly. The concrete floor is now being laid, and the interior will be put into as presentable a condition as possible before the arrival of the delegates.

The Daughters of Rebecca will hold their sessions in the Court House, the Veterans' Association—composed of Odd Fellows of twenty five or more years' standing—in the Engine House and the Encampment in the hall of the Order of Independent Americans.

Decorating is to be done extensively according to the plans of the joint committee. The First National Bank building, the home of Gettysburg Lodge, is to be elaborately decorated and business men and hotels will be expected to assist in giving the town its most gala appearance.

The entertainment portions of the convention will consist of battlefield trips and two special meetings in Xavier Hall, neither of which will be open to the public. On Tuesday evening the degree team of Columbus Lodge, Chambersburg, will exemplify the work of the L. O. O. F. and on Wednesday evening a degree team from Baltimore will perform similar work for the Daughters of Rebecca.

Delegates and visitors to the number of about 1500 are expected to attend the conventions.

LAST IN LINCOLN PARTY

Was Member of Lincoln's Party at Cemetery Dedication.

The funeral of General Henry Clay Cochrane, who died suddenly last Sunday afternoon, took place at Chester Wednesday. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Francis M. Tait, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. A squad of marines from the League Island Navy Yard acted as escort of honor, and a large delegation from Wilde Post, Grand Army of the Republic, attended the obsequies.

Taps were sounded at the grave in Chester rural cemetery. General Cochrane was the last survivor of the thirteen men who accompanied Abraham Lincoln to Gettysburg, when the National Cemetery was dedicated.

PREPARE FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Usual Sunday Services and Observance on May Thirtieth. General Orders as to Manner of Observing the Day.

Arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day in Gettysburg indicate that the same general plan of other years will be followed. The name of the orator of the day has not yet been announced but the parade and services at the National Cemetery will be the same as before.

On Sunday afternoon preceding Memorial Day the annual memorial service will be held in the Post Room and Rev. Charles Gardner, pastor of the United Brethren church, has been invited to deliver the sermon at that time. Rev. Fr. Boyle, rector of St. Francis Xavier church, is planning to follow the custom, inaugurated a year ago by Rev. Fr. Dougherty, of holding a special service in the Catholic cemetery on the evening of Sunday May 25, at which time flowers will be strewn on the graves of veterans buried in that cemetery.

General order No. 9, Department of Pennsylvania Grand Army of the Republic, Thomas H. Cole commander, refers to the approaching Memorial Day and its proper observance. The Commander asks for a full observance under the rules and regulations of the department and asks the Sons of Veterans, the Women's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Daughters of Veterans and other patriotic societies to associate with them in the services.

Attention is also called to the proviso in the order from National Headquarters that, as a part of the public exercises of Memorial Day, bells be tolled from 12:00 noon to 12:05; that flags be placed at half mast, and that comrades remain standing with uncovered heads during this period. As part of the ceremonies of Memorial Day, there will be read Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and General Order No. 11, dated May 5, 1868, issued by our first Commander-in-chief John A. Logan, instituting Memorial Day.

Post commanders are ordered to see that the patriotic programs in the public schools be observed, as heretofore, on Friday, May 23, and that memorial services be held in the churches on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, May 25.

The Department Commander includes this eloquent appeal in his order:

"It is for us, my comrades, we of the 'rear guard', who form a thin picket line on the western slope of life's rugged march, we whose shadows are falling toward the East, and in whose ears the echo of 'taps' that have sounded for comrades that have gone before, on this Sabbath day of the Grand Army of the Republic, to pledge anew our fealty to comrades, living or dead, to renew our obligation to cherish the memory of the fallen brave, and decorate with the choicest flowers of Spring the little green mounds under which they peacefully sleep, awaiting the reveille of the resurrection morn."

A freak chicken is the property of William Breneman, of York County, having four perfectly formed legs. The chick was hatched by a hen and is now four days old. It is of the Hamburg breed. Two legs are normal, on which the chicken moves about, while the other two are somewhat shorter, and are fastened to the body directly back of the legs on which the chicken walks. It is expected that the freak will live.

CHAPTER XII. Strange Fortunes of War.

GERTRUDE excused herself, ran down to the gate, raised the stone and took a packet of letters from beneath it.

"My private postoffice," she whispered to Madeline. "Here is a line from Robert. You shall read it. Hello! and here is a dispatch for me to deliver—you know, dear, you are in Confed-

by Patriot Publishing company

"There's a Union regiment coming up the pike."

erate country now, but that makes no difference between us, does it? And what do you think? Here is a letter from Washington—from Mrs. Haverhill and with a United States postmark. Robert says it was in a mail bag which the Mosby guerrillas captured when they stopped a train."

"What does she say?" asked Madeline eagerly.

"You shall hear. She says: 'My dear Gertrude—When Kerchival West was in Washington last week on his way from Chattanooga to serve under Sheridan in the Shenandoah valley he called upon me. I should hope so! Darling, he still—'

"Loves you!" interjected Madeline.

"Never mind that! I have kept your secret. Gertrude—oh, indeed—but I was sorely tempted to betray the confidence you placed in me at Charleston if Kerchival West had heard you say, as I did, when your face was hidden in my bosom that night, that—"

"That you loved him with your whole heart?" ventured Madeline.

"Nonsense! I'm—I'm certain that he still loves you as much as ever!"

Here Jenny, who had been down the road making a reconnaissance, came galloping back on an imaginary charger.

"Do you hear that music?" she cried. "It's a military band playing 'John Brown's March'!"

The boys are singing too. There's a Union regiment coming up the pike. And whose regiment do you suppose it is? Colonel Kerchival West's, that's what!"

Gertrude started violently, then said with assumed indifference:

"What does it matter whose regiment it is?"

"Oh, of course, you don't care. But I do. Heartsease is in it!"

Gertrude clutched at the paper she had thrust into the bosom of her riding jacket, turned away abruptly and hurried off toward the stables. In the excitement of the moment her withdrawal was not noticed. A moment later Josephus led out her gray horse, saddled and bridled. She mounted lightly and disappeared down a wooded path in the direction of the hills, opposite from that in which the troops were now plainly heard approaching.

"Cavalry!" Jenny exclaimed joyously. "That's the branch of the service I enlisted in as soon as I was born. I'll pass 'em in review. Draw saber!"

executing the movement with her parasol. "Present! What! Trumpet signal 40. That means halt. Why, they are stopping here. No. 38—diamond! T-ara-la-ta-ta—No. 17—assembly of guard details. Well, what do you think of that? They are going into camp here. Say, girls, we'll have all the fun we want now! I wonder how I'll receive Captain Heartsease. He ought to be court-martialed for stealing my handkerchief—unless he's still got it with him."

As if at the call of his name, that punctilious officer himself suddenly came into view. He was afoot, and by his side walked another in Confederate gray—none other, in fact, than Colonel Robert Ellingham.

"This way, colonel, if you'll permit me. Decidedly embarrassing, certainly. Ah, aw—Miss Buckthorn!" Here the captain adjusted his eyeglasses and stood as stock still as the gatepost.

"Well, Captain Heartsease! I suppose the unexpected sight of me has paralyzed you."

"That expresses the situation accurately, Miss Buckthorn," replied the automaton with perfect composure.

"What's that Ellingham?" the young lady exclaimed, suddenly recognizing the other officer. "Tell me, quick, Heartsease, which of you two is prisoner to the other?"

"I am the prisoner, Miss Buckthorn," said Ellingham, saluting smilingly. "I didn't get out of Winchester quickly enough this time, so they gathered me in. But Major Williams has kindly accepted my parole, and I have been permitted to show Captain Heartsease the way to conduct me here, aw."

He peered anxiously in the direction of the veranda, whence a graceful figure now emerged and ran eagerly toward him.

"Madeline!"

"Robert!"

They clasped hands—both hands together—and stood gazing into each other's eyes in rapt silence, oblivious of all around.

"Do you see that, Captain Heartsease?" demanded Jenny Buckthorn. "By the way, is Major Williams in command of the regiment? I thought—"

"Colonel West is to join us at this point. He should arrive shortly. You see, another division of the Nineteenth corps, under General Haverhill, has been sent on to re-enforce Sheridan. Pardon my mentioning such uninteresting details at a moment when—aw—the fact is, Miss Buckthorn, the excitement of this unexpected meeting has so completely upset me that—"

"Oh, bother! Come along out of this, and I'll show you how the land lies hereabouts."

They marched off to the sent under the big cottonwood tree, while Ellingham and Madeline West found their way back to the veranda.

A little later a Federal guard marched up the road, and a sentry was duly posted at the gate. The first person to receive this sentry's salute upon passing was Colonel Kerchival West. He came alone, carrying a letter or dispatch in his hand and looking about eagerly, as if he expected somebody to recognize him.

Captain Heartsease advanced briskly to meet him, having duly obtained leave of absence from Miss Buckthorn. "Colonel West?" he said.

"Captain!" was the formal response. "You have rejoined the regiment earlier than we expected?"

"Yes. General Haverhill sends me word that he will meet me here at 1 o'clock. In the meantime, Major Williams tells me that some of your company captured Colonel Robert Ellingham at Winchester."

"He is here under parole. Lives here, by Jove, when he is at home! Odd circumstances."

"So, this is the old Ellingham home-stead?" mused Kerchival, walking aside a bit, in ill-restrained restlessness.

Where was Gertrude? How would she receive him? How would Bob receive him under the circumstances?

"By the bye, Captain Heartsease," he said, in a sufficiently matter of fact tone, "a young lieutenant named Bedloe, I believe, has joined your troop. What do you know of him?"

"Very little, colonel, save that he seems an excellent young officer—has a record of conspicuous gallantry, I believe, or something of the sort. I should fancy Young's secret service corps would be the proper place for him—you know General Sheridan is organizing such a body, and I understand he wants it to be composed of soldiers exclusively, if he can get them. The valley, it would appear, is infested with—aw—Confederate spies and irregulars, don't you know—of both sexes, too, as we are informed."

"So I hear. Now, regarding this Lieutenant Bedloe, I sent for him as I came through the camp. You may be surprised to learn that he is the son of General Haverhill."

"I am surprised! Under an assumed name, then?"

"Evidently. He was supposed to have been killed in the southwest, either at Shiloh or when Farragut came up the Mississippi from the gulf. Instead, he was a prisoner, and he escaped from Libby."

"Here he comes now," said Captain Heartsease, looking down the driveway.

"What that fellow with the beard? Why, his face was as smooth as a boy's when I last met him in Charleston."

The young stranger—for he was that by his manner and to all appearances—approached and saluted, saying:

"You wished me to report to you, colonel?"

"You have been assigned to the regiment during my absence?" asked Kerchival, scanning him closely.

"Yes, sir."

At this Kerchival started straight, grasped his hand and, looking straight into his eyes, said:

"Frank Haverhill!"

"You know me, sir?"

"Yes, Frank, I know you now. You could not have arrived at a more opportune moment. When I passed through Washington I saw Mrs. Haverhill, and she told me of your escape from prison in Richmond. But no one knew of your having reentered the service or that you had been assigned to my regiment—not only that, but to General Haverhill's brigade."

"My father?" gasped the lieutenant.

"Yes. Through yourself to meet him face to face at any moment. But he can't possibly recognize you with that beard and uniform. Now, only this morning I received a letter from Washington all about you. Here it is!"

Colonel West took the missive from his pocket and handed it over—"so they have learned more as to your whereabouts since I was there. Count upon me, my dear fellow, to do everything I can for you."

In another moment General Haverhill, accompanied by a staff officer to whom he was issuing instructions, stood at the foot of the veranda steps. He had only time to return the salute of the three officers awaiting him there when another of his staff came hurrying up on horseback and handed him a dispatch.

"Good for Major Young!" muttered the general, scanning the paper. "So the men are ready? Then, turning to Kerchival, he said: 'Colonel, I have to instruct you regarding a highly important matter which has just come up, and there is not a minute to be lost. I will ask Captain Heartsease to remain also.'"

PASS LAND BILL DESPITE BRYAN

Adopted by California Senate by Viva Voce Vote.
MAY NOT OFFEND JAPAN

New Measure Does Not Contain "Ineligible to Citizenship" Phrase and Observes Present Treaty.

Sacramento, Cal., May 1. — If the purpose of the visit of Secretary of State Bryan was to sidetrack alien land legislation at this session and thus offset the protest of Japan, his mission has been a failure, although the outcome may yet be an adjustment that will satisfy Japanese objections and be acceptable to President Wilson.

The final conference between Secretary Bryan and Governor Johnson and the members of the legislature closed Tuesday night. Within three minutes and before most of the spectators knew what had occurred, Senator Boynton, president pro tem of the upper house, convened the senate and a substitute land bill, drafted by Attorney General Webb, which would restrict the right of aliens ineligible to citizenship under the laws of the United States to hold real property in California, was adopted as a substitute for the pending measure by unanimous viva voce vote.

Owing to the absence of Mr. Bryan, who is in San Francisco, it is the plan of the senate leaders to take no further action on the bill until Mr. Bryan returns, when it will come up in the regular course of business, and it is said undoubtedly will be passed. It will then go to the assembly and finally to the governor, who has said he will sign the measure at once.

The phrase, "ineligible to citizenship," is avoided in the bill by providing two descriptions of aliens, those eligible to citizenship and "all other aliens," and defining the rights of each. Despite this avoidance of the objectionable term "ineligible to citizenship," Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford university, and others, say the measure carries the sting of discrimination, contrary to Secretary Bryan's advice.

Attorney General Webb worked on his draft of a measure on the theory that there could be no objection to writing into the statute the specific limitations of the treaty of 1911. Under this treaty, Japanese subjects are permitted to own "houses and lands for residential purposes, factories, manufacturing and ships," according to Mr. Webb. Another clause permits Japanese subjects to lease land for "residential and commercial purposes."

These are the only stipulations made, and it is the belief of the attorney general that the rights of Japanese subjects to land ownership in the United States stop at this point. Under this construction of the treaty no land can be owned or leased by a Japanese for agricultural purposes except what is already owned, or for any other purposes except those set forth in the agreement between the nations.

Secretary Bryan brought into the final conference further messages from President Wilson, but they met with no response from the legislators. At the close of the secret meeting Governor Johnson and a number of the state administration leaders said their opinions remained the same.

President Wilson's messages were in the form of replies to questions asked of Secretary Bryan on Monday. In answer to the question as to the effect of a law containing the words "ineligible to citizenship" would have upon the federal government, President Wilson sent the following reply to Secretary Bryan:

"I can only say that I cannot assume that the representations heretofore made to the governor and the legislature, and which your presence in Sacramento must necessarily have greatly emphasized, will be disregarded, and so render it necessary to consider that question."

That was taken as the nearest approach to a threat of danger that has been made since the conference began.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 1.—William G. Hawkins, judge of the orphans' court of this county for thirty-nine years, died here of heart disease. He was a son of W. J. Hawkins, speaker of the house in the legislature from 1823 to 1833.

Every well regulated dairy farm in Germany and Holland has a reservoir close to the stable in which the liquid manure is caught and kept until it is pumped into a tank wagon and sprinkled on to the meadows. This seems like a good deal of bother, possibly, to the usually careless American farmer, yet it is a practice that he might follow very advantageously. In fact, it is one that he will be compelled to follow not many years hence if he is to get a fair return off land that is constantly increasing in price.

Rumor Says Round of Social Functions Has Broken Her Health.

Washington, May 1.—There are rumors that Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, wife of the secretary of state, has broken down in health because of the strain put upon her by the constant social functions since her arrival in Washington.

It is said that Mrs. Bryan will seek rest in a Washington sanitarium. Inquiry at the sanitarium mentioned brought out the information that Mrs. Bryan was not there and the authorities knew of none of her plans to be accommodated there.

DAUGHTERS OBJECT TO JAUNT OF BELL

Protest Against Sending Relic to 'Frisco Fair.

Philadelphia, May 1.—A resolution asking the circulation of a petition among the state societies, protesting against the temporary removal of the Liberty Bell from Independence Hall, was unanimously adopted at the twenty-second annual meeting of the General Society, Daughters of the Revolution.

"As it is now, the Liberty Bell has been subjected to very undignified treatment," President General Mrs. Bleakley said. "In Chicago it stood on a pile of stones under a wooden shed. In St. Louis women pried a crack with parangs and umbrellas, trying to obtain souvenirs. In Philadelphia, as the custodian of the bell should take care of it for the nation."

The general sentiment among the members was that four or five miles of signatures against the proposed trip should counteract the efforts of miles of names brought to Philadelphia from California to aid the project.

A committee of three, composed of Mrs. Bouschur, Miss Abeline S. E. and Mrs. D. Phoenix Ingraham, both of New York, was appointed by Mrs. Bleakley to draft the petition.

POLICE RAID SUFFRAGETTES

British Home Office Seizes Headquarters.

MUST STOP MILITANCY

Leaders Are Placed Under Arrest and Documentary Evidence of Conspiracy Is Found.

London, May 1.—The British home office started an active campaign to put an end to suffragette militancy in England.

The headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union, in London, where many outrages are said to have been planned, was occupied by the police and all the active leaders taken into custody.

Even "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond and Miss Annie Kenney, who were out on bail, were arrested on a fresh charge of conspiring with the members of the Pankhurst family to commit malicious damage.

More than 10 policemen and detectives from Scotland Yard helped in the capture of the militant offices. They had scarcely taken possession of the place when "General" Drummond, apparently ignorant of what had happened, arrived and was admitted, not realizing that she had voluntarily entered the lion's den until she found herself under arrest and on the way to the Bow street police station, where she met Miss Annie Kenney and five other active officials of the society.

Miss Barbara Kerr, the secretary of the Women's Social and Political Union; Misses Lake, Lennox and Barrett and Mrs. Saunders, the officials of the society who were in charge of the offices at the time of the raid, were arrested and a large quantity of documents was seized. Several typists and clerks were ordered to leave the premises, which were then closed and policemen left on guard. The women arrested were charged with conspiracy or with violations of the malicious damages act.

The police carried away a large amount of documentary evidence, part of which is said to relate to the threatened reprisals of the militants if Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, president of the Women's Social and Political Union, were returned to jail.

In the house of commons Home Secretary McKenna explained why the offices of the Union were raided: "The Women's Social and Political Union is an association of persons," said Mr. McKenna, "who are charged with conspiracy, the actual commission of crime and the inciting of others to violence. They are dangerous."

The government played its trump card when it served notice that in the future all contributors to the suffrage funds will be prosecuted, and prohibited the printing of suffrage literature. The government believes that without funds the suffrage cause will languish away.

Suffragettes destroyed the courts of the Billesley Tennis club, on the outskirts of Birmingham. The nets were slashed and the courts proper had been dug full of trenches. The lawns beside the courts were smeared with acid and scattered with the wreckage of benches and chairs.

SUES FOR LOSS OF LEG

Mother Asks $30,000 For Injury to Child.

Seranton, Pa., May 1.—Three-year-old Mary Laston, who lost a leg on a culm bank near the Parker shaft here in September last, started suit by her mother in the United States district court for $30,000 damages from the Delaware & Hudson company.

The child's mother was picking coal on the dump, and the child followed her. A loaded mine car, drawn by a mule, was run over the dump, and when the car got to a slight grade the driver, it is alleged, unhitched the mule and let the car travel by its own impetus.

The car struck the child, knocked her to the rails and her left leg was taken off above the knee.

Crank Sought President.

Washington, May 1.—Albert L. Wood, a tinner, of this city, was arrested at the White House while trying to force his way into the executive offices. Wood carried a letter to President Wilson, in which he claimed he had been married to a young girl in Washington by President Taft and he wished President Wilson to investigate the marriage.

Stick Sped Fatal Shot.

Dagoboro, Del., May 1.—Worrying over family troubles, William Slock rider, about forty-five years old, blew his brains out with a gun. When his wife and daughter returned home after a day's work they found his body in the best room of the house. A forked stick was used to push the trigger of the gun, which he held close to his head.

Confers Again on Appointments.

Washington, May 1.—President Wilson had another series of conference with senators, Republican and Democrat, on appointments for their states. The most important appointment discussed was that of George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburgh, to be United States ambassador to Japan, on which the views of Senators Penrose and Oliver, of Pennsylvania, were asked.

SCHWAB TO BUILD BIG STEEL MILL

To Spend $9,000,000 on Extensions This Year.

South Bethlehem, Pa., May 1.—C. M. Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel company, announced that he had decided to add a merchant mill to his already largely equipped plant.

It will be located on the property recently acquired from the New Jersey Zinc company, which has abandoned its plant. This mill is part of the $9,000,000 that Mr. Schwab intends to spend on extensions this year.

As a start for the merchant mill a thirty-five-inch blowing mill was purchased at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars. The mill will be run by electricity. Mr. Schwab having just purchased three 2500 kilowatt electric generators. The giant gas engines to run the generators are now building at the South Bethlehem plant.

CARDINAL OPPOSES V. FOR W.

Says They Vote by Proxy Through Husbands.

Baltimore, Md., May 1.—A letter from Cardinal Gibbons opposing woman suffrage was read at a mass meeting here under the auspices of the Maryland Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. The cardinal said in part:

"Equal rights do not imply that both sexes should engage promiscuously in the same pursuits, but rather that each sex should discharge those duties which are adapted to its physical constitution and are sanctioned by the canons of society."

"When I deprecate female suffrage I am pleading for the dignity of woman. I am contending for her honor. I am striving to perpetuate those peerless prerogatives inherent in her sex, those charms and graces which exalt womanhood and make her the ornament and the coveted companion of man."

"We must remember that though woman does not personally vote she exercises the right of suffrage by proxy. So powerful is the influence which a sensible matron exerts over her husband and sons that they will rarely fail to follow her counsel which comes from inspired rather than labored reasoning."

The letter was read by Rev. P. C. Gavan, chancellor of the diocese.

Duchess Not Out of Danger.

PERSONALITIES IN TARIFF DEBATE

All Efforts to Amend Bill Is Bowled Out.

METAL SCHEDULED ATTACKED

Minority Leaders Declare Ore Was Placed on Free List in Interest of Steel Corporation.

Washington, May 1.—Many lively exchanges of personalities occurred in the house during the tariff debate. At one point Representative Hamilton, of Michigan, and Representative Hardy, of Texas, became so acrimonious as they shook their fingers at one another in a dispute over Angola goats that the house was convulsed with laughter, and no one knew what was being said.

All efforts to change the bill were futile. The Democrats, with their overwhelming majority, bowled over all amendments proposed by the Republicans and Progressives. The ways and means committee, however, had ready and carried a number of its own amendments, all of a minor character and designed to perfect the classifications.

The iron and steel schedule was the particular target of attack, and Representative Palmer, of Pennsylvania, the Republican leader, and others charged that the duty on ferro manganese was distinctly in the interest of the United States Steel corporation, with its numerous subsidiary plants, and that the enhancement of the value of ferro manganese in this country, under the proposed advance in rates should be sufficient to warrant the Pennsylvania member's indefinite continuance in congress.

Mr. Mann declared, however, that while he thought the pending bill would be very injurious to the country, he did not believe in "prolonging the agony" unnecessarily and suggested that as we are to have the passage in the present form, the sooner the better.

Representative Austin, of Tennessee Republican, said Charles M. Schwab had succeeded in getting free iron ore after trying unsuccessfully to get it from Republican ways and means committees.

An attempt to amend the duties on glass, during which Representative Murdock declared that Representative Moore, of Pennsylvania, "out-Payned" the representative from New York as a protectionist, was lost after a sharp skirmish.

Representative Stanley, of Kentucky, aroused Chairman Underwood with a statement that convict labor was employed in the steel mills of Alabama; that convicts were worked in the mines, and that in some instances corporations had runners at police stations to pick up persons arrested for minor offenses and send them to the mines.

"I want to say," Mr. Underwood declared, jumping to his feet, "that I voted to put iron ore on the free list but I can't stand here and listen to a slander on my own constituency." He emphatically denied Mr. Stanley's charges.

There were frequent exchanges of personalities. Representative Miller of Minnesota, hotly resented what he characterized as the "habitual looseness of speech" indulged in by Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley retorted that Miller's remarks were "bald and impudent."

TWINE MILL STRIKE SETTLED

Soldiers and Strikers in Pitched Battle at Auburn.

Auburn, N. Y., May 1.—The strike at the twine mills of the International Harvester company has been settled. Militia that was called out did not prevent rioting at the twine mills. There were several pitched battles between the police, soldiers, deputies and strikers.

Six strikers were arrested, three of them women. The latter fought with all the weapons of their sex and were taken to police headquarters biting, scratching and kicking.

Among the men arrested was the strike leader, Giacomo Termini, the organizer of the foreign unions.

Earthquake Recorded.

Washington, May 1.—An earthquake was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university, the main displacement being east and west, the disturbance appearing to be outside the 500-mile zone from Washington. The record of the disturbance began at 6:51 a. m. and continued until after 8 o'clock, the intensity being moderate.

Knows Now It Isn't Good to Drink.

Wilmington, Del., May 1.—Curious to know what a golf ball had made of, Rodney Warren, aged twelve years, broke one open and drank a liquid he found inside, with almost fatal result, the liquid being poison. He was pumped out at the Homeopathic hospital and will recover.

A Dr. Farley of Pomona, Cal., reports an egg measuring six inches in length and eight inches in circumference the short way laid by one of his Rhode Island Red hens. This is said to beat the record for California if not for the country.

Corn silage has not only been found to be an ideal winter ration for feeding cattle, dairy cows and in small quantities for sheep, but poultrymen are finding that it furnishes an excellent green food for their flocks and one that is greatly relished.

Has Mounted Steadily Since 1890.

Washington, May 1.—During the latter part of 1912 the cost of living in the United States was higher than at any other time during the past twenty-three years.

The bureau of labor statistics has just issued a report on retail prices from 1890 to 1913. The lowest cost was reached in each of the geographical divisions and in the United States, as a whole, in 1896. From that date to 1912 the total increase in the cost of living a year for a workingman's family by geographical divisions was:

Divisions	1890	1896	1912
North Atlantic....	$319	$300	$466
South Atlantic....	274	265	415
North Central....	299	276	463
South Central....	269	255	441
Western.....	309	277	429

The approximate cost of a year's food supply for an average workingman's family, at average prices of each year, by geographical divisions for 1890, 1896 (the low year), and 1912, was:

Divisions	1890	1896	1912

Self control is as necessary for the driver of horses that are being broken as it is for the horses themselves. The driver cannot impart something to his horse that he doesn't possess himself.

A handful of bonemeal given to dairy cows daily will tend to prevent the habit they often form of eating urine soaked straw in the manure pile, as well as some other kinds of refuse.

According to poultry standards, the Light Brahma is the heaviest of chickens. The cock bird should weigh twelve pounds, the cockerel ten, the hen nine and a half and the pullet eight.

A Puzzled Author.

When Alphonse Daudet brought out "Sappho" an American publishing house that issued religious books, not knowing its character, offered M. Daudet a large sum for advance sheets of the work. He accepted the offer, and the advance sheets were sent. When the publishers received them they decided that they could not issue the book, and they cabled to the author, "Sappho" will not do." This dispatch puzzled Daudet. He consulted with numbers of friends, and this was the conclusion at which they eventually arrived: "Sappho" in French is spelled with one "p"—"Sappho" after the Greek fashion. In English it is spelled with two. An unusually acute friend pointed this out to Daudet, which much relieved the novelist, and he cabled back to the publishers, "Spell it with two p's." It is needless to state that the publishers were more astonished at Daudet's reply than he had been at their cable dispatch.

THE EGG LAYING CONTEST.

The pens of White Leghorns belong to the Englishman, Thomas Barron, entered at the Missouri and Connecticut international egg laying contests, are still keeping a wide margin ahead of their nearest competitors. In the contest at Storrs college, Connecticut, the English pen had a record of 476 eggs at the end of ten weeks, while second and third places were held with scores of 384 and 340 eggs by two pens of Silver Wyandottes from Illinois and Iowa, respectively. Black Orpingtons, Barred Plymouth Rocks and Black Langshans hold fourth, fifth and sixth places in the contest, in the order named. Two of these English White Leghorns hold first and second places in the individual record with scores of sixty-three and sixty-two, respectively.
